Museum Studies Minor

The Museum Studies minor is open to any undergraduate student at the University of Delaware and is an excellent way to explore careers in museums, historic sites, archives, libraries and related organizations. Taking advantage of the rich array of institutions in our region, students go “behind the scenes” through courses that include hands-on experiences, the required internship, group service projects in small museums and field trips.

We also welcome students who are not planning careers in cultural institutions. Whatever your career plans, the minor will help you become an informed, enthusiastic visitor and supporter of the tens of thousands of museums in this country and around the world.

Requirements: The minor requires 18 credit hours. You may double-count one course (3 credits) from your major or another minor.

- MSST 203: Introduction to Museums (3 credits).
- MSST/HIST 464: Internship/Public Service Project.
- 12 Hours of approved courses. You can apply selected courses from a variety of departments and programs (Anthropology, Art Conservation, Art History, Black American Studies, History, and Public Administration, and others) to the minor.

Please visit the Museum Studies website for more information

REQUIREMENTS

THE MAJOR
(30 credit hours)

The thirty-hour major includes the following requirements:

a. HIST 101 or HIST 103
b. HIST 102 or HIST 104
c. HIST 268
d. One History course before 1700, not including HIST 101 and HIST 103.
e. Three credit hours in African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern History.
f. Twelve credits at the 300 level or above. (Independent of the HIST 4xx seminar requirement)
g. One History Seminar at the 400 level or above, excluding HIST 403, 464*, 468*, 491, 493 and Independent Study.

*Depending on topic

Note:
All history majors must take HIST268 in their sophomore year. If the history major is declared after the sophomore year, HIST268 must be taken the following semester. In all cases, HIST268 must be taken before a 400-level seminar.

[Effective for students matriculated fall 2009 or later]

History Minor Requirements

The History minor requires a minimum of fifteen credits, which are distributed as follows:

1. Two courses from HIST101, 102, 103, 104, 205, 206.
2. Three courses at the 300 level or above, (excluding HIST 491 and 493).

The minor may be structured to permit concentration in a specific period, topic or approach, and fashioned to meet the individual needs of the student.

NOTE:
Only Education students are allowed to use HIST 491 toward a minor in History.
HISTORY MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS
(36 credit hours)

Concentrations provide an opportunity for History majors to pursue a more focused program of study. Those who have clear career objectives or wish to go on to graduate studies may find the concentrations particularly helpful. Concentrations are offered in the following fields: American, European, or World History. Concentration options are available for all majors.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS FOR CONCENTRATIONS:

PHI ALPHA THETA

The Department supports the campus chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the international Honor Society in History. To be eligible for membership, an undergraduate must complete at least twelve semester hours in history, with a 3.1 average in history courses taken, and a 3.0 overall GPA excluding history. College credits earned by means of Advanced Placement examinations will not count toward admission. Phi Alpha Theta, with chapters on college campuses in all fifty states, as well as Washington, D.C., Puerto Rico, Canada, and the Philippine Islands, is one of the most respected honor societies in the country. Its student members are eligible for one of a number of prizes and scholarship awards annually.

Initiation is held each spring for eligible students. Letters of invitation are mailed in early February. For more information, contact the Department of History, 236 John Munroe Hall.

HISTORY CLUB

The object of this organization is to assist fellow students in research (especially younger students, who may not have had to perform research of a similar level before), enhance our own analytical skills, and promote the appreciation of history within the student body of the University of Delaware. Membership is open to all full-time, matriculated undergraduate students at the University of Delaware who agree with the purpose and object of the group. Visit the History Club website to learn more. www.history.udel.edu/programs/undergraduateprograms/history-club

In this course we will be learning about the history and development of Hollywood and the movie industry as modern business and spectacle, greatly influential in American (and world) culture today. We will be viewing and discussing certain classic American films and film genres. Topics include: the Hollywood celebrity machine and the “star system;” trends in direction and design; the “studio system,” business and corporate structure; themes of gender, race and “making it in America;” the gangster films; the Cold War and American filmmaking; sex, violence, and censorship.
HIST223.010: NATURE AND HISTORY
Ott  Limit 50  TR 11:00-12:15
In this course, students will study the ways people have created nature displays dating back to cabinets of curiosity in the Renaissance and up to present day wildlife TV programs. We will analyze how people the world over have cataloged and exhibited plants and animals, including human beings, in venues such as botanical dictionaries, gardens and arboretums, private menageries, museum dioramas, TV and film, front yards, and zoos, among others. This interdisciplinary course will tie together the themes of nature, science, and popular culture. Its purpose is to have students learn about and analyze one of the central means that people encounter and engage with the natural world – as objects of display. At the end of it, students will be able to identify historic trends in human-nature encounters; they will have acquired skills in interpreting images, objects, and exhibitions; and they will be acquainted with pivotal works in the fields of environmental humanities and museum studies.

HIST254.010: THE JEWISH HOLOCAUST
Zavadivker  Limit 75  MWF 11:15-12:05
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This course focuses on the infamous "Final Solution," with particular emphasis on the roots of Anti-Semitism, National Socialist policies and plans, ghetto and camp life, the Einsatzgruppen, resistance, the politics of rescue and the art and literature of the Holocaust. HIST268.010: SEMINAR: HURRICANES, PLAGUES & FAMINE: SOCIAL HISTORIES OF DISASTER
Buckley  Limit 15  TR 9:30-10:45
This course satisfies the University of Delaware’s DLE requirement.
This course examines episodes of catastrophic upheaval from the bubonic plague to hurricane Katrina, to understand how historians and social scientists interpret what are sometimes termed “natural disasters.” What social and cultural factors shape a community’s response to such events? What long-term impact on social structure and political organization does each have? How can we incorporate non-human agents, like pathogens and climatic forces, into our understanding of human history? After reading several model texts, students will undertake their own social history of a “natural” disaster.

HIST268.025: SEMINAR: FASCISM & COMMUNISM IN EUROPE
HIST268.085: HONORS SECTION
Cruz  Limit 12/3  W 3:35-6:35
This course satisfies the University of Delaware’s DLE requirement.
This course is open to majors only.
Fascism, communism, and to a lesser degree, anarchism, seemed to offer efficient and rapid solutions to the economic, social, and political troubles created by World War I and the Great Depression. For that reason, these ideologies captivated the imagination of many Europeans during the 1930s. However, the radical nature of their solutions took European politics to the brink of armed confrontation. This seminar will explore the developments that led up to that polarization through the study of the Spanish Civil War (1936-39) and the rise of the Nazi Party in Germany. Students will write a research paper based on a variety of primary sources available at the University library and the Internet.
HIST268.012: SEMINAR: RACISM & SOCIAL EXCLUSION, A GLOBAL HISTORY
Rawat  Limit 15  TR 11:00-12:15
This course satisfies the University of Delaware’s DLE requirement.
This course is open to majors only, or by permission.
This course will introduce students to the institutional practices of social exclusion practiced in much of the world in the twentieth century. Racism is the most visible form of exclusion in the world but there exists in the world forms segregation that have stigmatized large swath of population in various parts of the world on the grounds of occupation like the Untouchables in India and Japan. We will make a typology of such excluded groups through cases studies in the United States, Brazil, South Africa, India, and Japan. We will examine the role of “radical internationalism” in building global alliances, connecting organizations in Africa, Asia, Brazil, and the US, to challenge the ideologies and practices of racism and social exclusion in the twentieth century. Yet, we will also explore the promises and limitations of such global alliances on the struggles of socially excluded groups in the south.

HIST307.010: THE UNITED STATES IN THE EARLY NATIONAL PERIOD
HIST307.011: SECOND WRITING
HIST307.080: HONORS SECTION & 2nd WRITING
Heyrman  Limit 25/5/5  TR 9:30-10:45
ONLY sections 011, and 080 are offered as 2nd writing this semester.
This course traces the development of the early American republic from the 1780s to the 1830s, decades which witnessed transformations in every sphere of life. The federal Constitution converted a confederation of sovereign states into a national republic. The rise of competing political parties fostered the emergence of a more democratic and participatory civic life. The spread of the market revolution and new transportation networks gave rise to a national market economy. The growing popularity of evangelical Christianity reconfigured ideals of womanhood, manhood, and the family. While those changes created new opportunities for some Americans, the early republic also became more unequal in fundamental ways: slavery followed the spread of white settlement throughout the South; federal and state governments forcibly removed Indian tribes west of the Mississippi. Lectures and readings focus on the debates among national political leaders about the structure, purposes, and policies of government, as well as on the experiences of ordinary Americans and their struggles to realize the Revolution’s ideals of liberty and equality.

HIST309.010: MONEY, MARKETS, & MISCHIEF: US BUSINESS & POLITICAL ECONOMY SINCE 1865
Russ  Limit 35  TR 11:00-12:15
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
From the “robber barons” of the Nineteenth Century to Bill Gates and Martha Stewart, this course will examine the ways in which business and business leaders have played a central role in American life. Among topics that we will explore are the development of America’s consumer culture, American business abroad, the role of foreign business activities in the U.S., and how McDonalds, Disney, and the Mall came to be our ubiquitous national symbols. The course will consist of lectures, weekly discussion of core reading assignments, and the research and writing of a paper.

HIST310.010: POSTWAR AMERICA, 1945-1963
Lanctot  Limit 35  MWF 9:05-9:55
This course will survey the major developments in the two decades following the end of World War II. Among the topics covered will be the Cold War, the Civil Rights movement, McCarthyism, suburbia, and the changing role of women. We will also examine other significant aspects of American life during this era, including the rock & roll revolution of the 1950s and the rise of television. Requirements will include a midterm, final, one paper, and several short homework assignments.

HIST314.010: THE UNITED STATES, 1914-1945
Bozanic  Limit 35  MW 3:35-4:50
Between 1914 and 1945, from the bloody trenches of France to the barren fields of the Dust Bowl, Americans struggled both at home and abroad in the face of great adversity. This course will explore a period of profound change in American society bookended by two World Wars. We will use a variety of primary and secondary sources, including objects of material culture, to cover topics ranging from the social and economic ramifications of the Great Depression to notions of freedom and security on the Home Front. In addition, we will explore how innovations in technology, business, and transportation contributed to a new era of mass consumption and radically altered Americans’ conceptions of time and space.
Throughout the journey, this course will incorporate the cultural history of the era through such works as the writings of Zora Neale Hurston, the music of Robert Johnson, and the films of Charlie Chaplin.

HIST319.080: HONORS SECTION
Bendler
Limit 32/3
MWF 10:10-11:00
The course examines the revolutionary era in American history. It will discuss the protest movement against the actions of Parliament, the decision for independence, the difficult war years, the Critical Period, and the formation and adoption of the American Constitution.

HIST321.010: CIVIL WAR AND RECONSTRUCTION
Bendler
Limit 35
MWF 12:20-1:10
This course is an examination of the history of the United States from the late 1840s into the 1870s. We will first examine the growing divide between North and South up to the election of Abraham Lincoln as President in 1860, culminating in the secession crisis following Lincoln's election. We will then look at the war years (1861-5). While this course is not strictly a military history, we will examine the impact of some of the major battles and military campaigns on policy decisions in Washington and Richmond. And we will carefully examine how war objectives changed through the four years of fighting. Finally, we will study the Reconstruction era (1865-77), and the debates over restoring the Union and the rights of former slaves.

Horowitz
Limit 20
MW 5:00-6:15
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This class surveys how food, kosher law, and cuisines from around the world have sustained the Jewish people for more than 3,000 years. It does so by exploring the many foods associated with Jews, as well as how kosher rules influenced the foods used in religious rituals and in daily home consumption. It will range widely over time and space, following the movement of Jews and changes in their foods from the ancient Middle East to modern America. It will include discussion of iconic Jewish foods such falafels and bagels, the special forms of meat and wine that kosher law required, and the surprising acceptance by Jews of non-Jewish cuisines such as Chinese food. This course is cross-listed with JWST327.
HIST328.010: AMERICAN CAPITALISM SINCE 1815
Johanningsmeier Limit 35 MWF 1:25-2:15
America’s rise to world power in the 19th and 20th centuries is very much tied to its emergence as the world’s most dynamic and productive industrial economy. This course will provide a close examination of the some of the most important economic, political, and social influences and effects of industrial capitalism on American history. Particular topics include: the origins and development of technological change; the changing roles of labor, business structure, and reform; management theory and practice; social protest and alienation; race relations in the context of labor and capital; family life, gender roles and population change; advertising and consumerism; and the “military industrial complex.”

HIST334.010: AFRICAN-AMERICAN WOMEN’S HISTORY
Suddler Limit 15 MWF 12:20-1:10
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. This course will explore the diversity of African American women’s lives and the development of women, work, and culture from the colonial era through the late twentieth century. Using primary and secondary sources we will explore the social, political, religious, and economic factors that produced change and transformation in the lives of African American women. This course has a number of goals, including providing a broad introduction to the interdisciplinary field of African American and Women’s Studies. Through history, religion, film, music, and cultural criticism we will discuss and explore the construction of African American women’s identities.

HIST337.010: TOPICS IN AMER HISTORY: AMONG THE AMERICANS
HIST337.080: HONORS SECTION
Alchon Limit 21/4 TR 2:00-3:15
BOTH sections are offered as 2nd writing this semester.
To take the measure of contemporary American life and character is to launch upon an adventure in moral imagination. It is also to enter upon a longstanding conversation about American virtue and default, about evil done and denied, about the things worth saving, and about the circumscribed fate of Americans without money enough to matter. This then is conversation of the best sort, at once alert, discerning, and unafraid of judgment. Those students who rise to these requirements will also rise into a measure of adult competence, into a sensibility better able to gauge the promises of American life.

HIST337.011: TOPICS IN AMERICAN HISTORY: AMERICAN SPORTS HISTORY
Lanctot Limit 35 MWF 10:10-11:00
This course will trace major developments in American sports history since the Civil War. A number of topics will be discussed including the professionalization of sports and the transformation from amateur game to big business, race and the evolving position of African American athletes, the effect of mass media, the shifting role of women, the creation of athletic celebrities, and the development of free agency. Although lectures and videos will comprise a good part of class time, class discussion is also an important component of this course. Requirements will include a midterm, final, and a term paper. Note: Knowledge of current sports is not a prerequisite for this course.

HIST337.012: TOPICS IN AMERICAN HISTORY: AMERICAN ASSASSINS
Russ Limit 35 TR 3:30-4:45
From the assassination of Abraham Lincoln to the murder of John Lennon, the United States periodically has been roiled by the assassinations of leading political and social figures. Over the course of the semester, we shall examine these traumatic events and the people and circumstances surrounding them. As part of the weekly lectures and reading assignments, we also will consider the role of media and film in shaping assassinations and our understanding of them in U.S. history. There will be one mid-term exam, a paper, and a final.

HIST357.080: HONORS SECTION
White
Limit 30/5
TR 2:00-3:15
This course aims to understand the development of modern urban culture in Europe by looking at the social and cultural life of two of its greatest cities. Focusing on London and Paris since about 1750, we will see how the rapid growth of these cities, capitals of powerful imperial nations, created opportunities and problems in equal measure: the elegance in which the rich lived, and the vibrancy of each city’s cultural life, frequently contrasted with the miserable conditions endured by the poor, and such unglamorous problems as how to dispose of garbage and the dead. With the aid of primary sources (including film) the course aims to build up a full picture of the evolution of cities in the modern world.

ONLY sections 011 and 081 are offered as 2nd writing this semester.
History of the Soviet Union An in-depth survey of major trends in Soviet history from the revolutions of 1917 to the revolution of 1991. In addition to basic political and economic history, we will stress social and cultural developments. Themes will include the origins of the Bolshevik revolution, the rise of Stalinism, social and cultural life in the 1920s and 1930s, the effects of World War II, party, state, and society in the Khrushchev and Brezhnev years, and the cultural and social revivals of the 1960s and 1970s. We will also spend time on developments during the Gorbachev years and the revolutionary events of 1991. There are no pre-requisites for the course, but students are encouraged to approach the history of the Soviet Union with an open mind—to challenge and change prejudices and preconceptions derived from our own Cold War history.

HIST368.011: MODERN CHINA, 1600’S TO PRESENT
Wang    Limit 30   TR 9:30-10:45
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. It also satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This course introduces students to modern Chinese history from the 1600s to the present. It provides students with insights into some issues that significantly influenced modern Chinese history with the aim of understanding what China was in the past, what China is today, and what China might be in the future. Students will explore the rise and prosperity of Manchu-rulled Qing China (1636/1644–1912), China’s decline with the coming of Western powers in the 19th century, China’s transformation into a modern nation-state after the nationalist and communist revolutions in the 20th century, and the so-called “rise of China” in the 21st century.

HIST375.010: BRITAIN SINCE 1714
HIST373.080: HONORS SECTION
Wasson    Limit 32/3  MWF 11:15-12:05
Britain was the first industrial society and amassed the largest empire in human history. The rise of almost every element of modernity from democracy to feminism and technology to mass culture can only be understood by studying Britain since 1714. The world today was shaped by the rise and fall of the British Empire. This course also examines the growth and defense of liberal values in the wars against European tyranny from Napoleon to Hitler.

HIST377.010: RADICALISM & REVOLUTION: ISLAMIC MOVEMENTS IN THE MODERN MIDDLE EAST
Benjamen   Limit 35   TR 2:00-3:15
This section satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This course will explore the contexts, dynamics, structures and ideologies of a number of Islamic movements which since 1700 have arisen in the Middle East and the wider Islamic world. It seeks to provide a historical framework for a better understanding of the modern expression of Islamic “fundamentalism” on the basis of examples in the past as well as in the present. Emphasis will be placed on Egypt, Lebanon, Iran, and Palestine in the modern period, as well as on the more recent phenomenon of "global jihad." Lectures. Documentaries.

History majors only, or by permission of instructor. Prerequisite: HIST268
BOTH sections are offered as 2nd writing this semester.
In its larger and oldest sense, political economy marries historical inquiry and social criticism. This seminar seeks to do much the same as it introduces the American debates over authority, power, and democratic possibility, particularly as these have developed since the advent of corporate capitalism. The "managerial revolution;" the idea and significance of the middle class; the problems posed by meritocracy and by inherited privilege; and the questions forced by the American imperium ...these are among the topics to be covered.

HIST439.010: WOMEN & REVOLUTION IN AFRICA

This section satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement. This course also fulfills the 2nd Writing Requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This course discusses the critical roles played by women in African revolutionary movements. The revolutions covered are: Algeria; Kenya; Guinea-Bissau; Mozambique; Angola; Zimbabwe; and South Africa. Led by men, these movements adopted similar though not identical ideologies in dealing with the “woman question.” Why did women join these revolutionary movements? What is the relationship between feminism and revolution? Did these revolutions liberate or betray women? Did the fortunes of women vary in the post-independent period due to the different ideologies adopted during the struggle for national liberation? This course is cross-listed with WOMS439

HIST633.010: THE U.S. IN THE 20th CENTURY
Ott Limit 12 T 2:00-5:00
This class will study the U.S. in the twentieth century through the lens of food production and consumption. We will investigate American foodways through themes, such as labor, environment, gender, ethnicity, globalization, identity, and power. We will analyze scholarly and popular works that approach food through the lens of semiotics, structuralism, post-structuralism, revisionist history, and Marxism, and ones that celebrate the pleasures of cooking and eating food. The course’s goal is to learn about the meaning of food and how the simple act of eating can reveal interconnections among so many diverse aspects of society, cultures, and the environment. Another goal is to introduce students to foodways as an accessible yet deeply penetrating tool they can add to their methodological approaches for studying history and cultures. At the course’s completion, students will be well versed in major methodological approaches and works in the diverse field of food studies. The course will also possibly include a public humanities component.
