REQUIREMENTS

THE MAJOR
(30 credit hours)

The thirty-hour major includes the following requirements:

a. HIST 101 [or HIST 103] **
b. HIST 102 [or HIST 104] **
c. HIST 268
d. One History course before 1700, not including HIST 101 [and HIST 103.]
e. Three credit hours in African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern History.
f. Twelve credits at the 300 level or above.
g. One History Seminar at the 400 level or above, excluding HIST403, 464, 468, 491, 493 and Independent Study.

Note:
All history majors must take HIST268 in their sophomore year. If the history major is declared after the sophomore year, HIST268 must be taken the following semester. In all cases, HIST268 must be taken before a 400-level seminar.

History Minor Requirements

The History minor requires a minimum of fifteen credits, which are distributed as follows:

1. Two courses from HIST101, 102, 103, 104, 205, 206.
2. Three courses at the 300 level or above, (excluding HIST491 and 493).

The minor may be structured to permit concentration in a specific period, topic or approach, and fashioned to meet the individual needs of the student.

NOTE:
Only Education students are allowed to use HIST 491 toward a minor in History.

[Effective for students matriculated fall 2009 or later]
HISTORY MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS
(36 credit hours)

Concentrations provide an opportunity for History majors to pursue a more focused program of study. Those who have clear career objectives or wish to go on to graduate studies may find the concentrations particularly helpful. Concentrations are offered in the following fields: American, European, or World History. Concentration options are available for all majors.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS FOR CONCENTRATIONS:

Within the Department
- HIST 101 [or HIST 103] **
- HIST 102 [or HIST 104] **
- HIST268 History Seminar Note: HIST268 does NOT count toward concentration.
- Course in Asian, African, Latin American, or Middle Eastern History
- History course before 1700, not including HIST 101 and HIST 103
- Seven courses in the field of concentration, four of which must be at the 300 level or above. With written approval of the advisor, a student may take two of these courses outside the Department of History.
- History seminar at the 400-level or above (excluding HIST403, 464, 468, 491, 493 and Independent Study)

Note: 15 of the history credits must be at the 300 level or above, as stated in the requirements for the regular major.

- Twenty-seven credits from related Social Studies Disciplines.
- Twenty-seven credits in Professional Education. HIST491 must be taken during fall semester of senior year. (Student teaching and HIST493 must be taken spring semester of senior year.) Pre-requisite for HIST493 is HIST491.
- A 3.0 GPA in history courses and an overall 2.75 GPA from time of application to student teaching.

History Education students are required to submit a learning portfolio and student teaching application by February of their junior year. For information about the program, consult your advisor or www.udel.edu/socialstudiesed

PHI ALPHA THETA

The Department supports the campus chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the international Honor Society in History. To be eligible for membership, an undergraduate must complete at least twelve semester hours in history, with a 3.1 average in the history courses taken, and a 3.0 overall g.p.a. excluding history. College credits earned by means of Advanced Placement examinations will not count toward admission. Phi Alpha Theta, with chapters on college campuses in all fifty states, as well as Washington, D.C., Puerto Rico, Canada, and the Philippine Islands, is one of the most respected honor societies in the country. Its student members are eligible for one of a number of prizes and scholarship awards annually.

Initiation is held each spring for eligible students. Letters of invitation are mailed in early February. For more information, contact the Department of History, 236 John Munroe Hall.

HONORS DEGREE

Honors advisor: Professor J. Russ

The History Department participates fully in the University Honors Program, including offering its majors the possibility of earning an Honors Degree. Requirements for an Honors Degree are as follows:

- A cumulative GPA of at least 3.400 at the time of graduation.
- At least 30 credits earned in Honors courses:
- At least 12 Honors credits in the major department or in courses in collateral disciplines specifically required for the major;
• At least 12 Honors credits in 300-level courses or higher, not including the first-year interdisciplinary Honors colloquium;
• Three credits in an Honors Degree seminar or Honors capstone course (general capstone course description and current capstone list http://honors.udel.edu/charts/capstone.html) or comparable senior experience approved by the major and the Honors Program, to be completed in one of the last two semesters of the student’s degree program.

Honors Degree with Distinction: The Honors Degree with Distinction recognizes a student’s completion of the research requirements for the Degree with Distinction in addition to the successful completion of 30 credits in Honors courses through the degree program.

Six credits of Honors thesis or project (UNIV 401/402) and the successful oral presentation of an acceptable thesis or project to a committee of faculty approved by the History department and the University Honors Program. Completion of any additional specifications for the thesis or project set by the major department. UNIV 402 satisfies the Honors senior capstone requirement. It does not satisfy the History 400-level seminar requirement.

Note: Six credits of Honors thesis may be counted as part of the 30 Honors credits required for the Honors Degree.

For more information on the Honors Degree, please visit the Honors Program web site at http://honors.udel.edu

HIST268.026: SEMINAR: FASCISM & COMMUNISM IN EUROPE
HIST268.086: HONORS: FASCISM & COMMUNISM IN EUROPE
Cruz Limit 12/3 T 3:30-6:30
For majors, or by permission.
Both sections satisfy the DLE requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
Fascism, communism, and to a lesser degree, anarchism, seemed to offer efficient and rapid solutions to the economic, social, and political troubles created by World War I and the Great Depression. For that reason, these ideologies captivated the imagination of many Europeans during the 1930s. However, the radical nature of their solutions took European politics to the brink of armed confrontation. This seminar will explore the developments that led up to that polarization through the study of the Spanish Civil War (1936-39) and the rise of the Nazi Party in Germany. Students will write a research paper based on a variety of primary sources available at the University library and the Internet.

HIST268.030: SEMINAR: AMERICA IN THE 1920s
Morris-Crowther Limit 15 R 3:30-6:30
For majors, or by permission.
This section satisfies the DLE requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
Using scholarly and cultural sources, this class surveys the 1920s from the perspectives of those who experienced the period and how America chooses to remember it. Students will gain skills in researching, interpreting and writing about historical subjects. There will be a few short analytical papers on readings and a long research paper, no examinations.

HIST268.033: SEMINAR: AMERICA’S LONG WAR, 1945-PRESENT
Alchon Limit 15 W 3:35-6:35
For majors, or by permission.
Since 1945, the United States has been routinely at war or violently interventionist, from Latin America to Asia, through Africa and into the Greater Middle East. This “Long War,” has been managed by the concomitant rise of a National Security State of notably expanded Executive secrecy, surveillance, and war powers. The seminar examines the history of these developments, their motivating ideas and essential institutions. It also attempts to weigh the benefits and costs, to Americans and to others, of the operations of the American National Security State during this epoch.
HIST270.010: HISTORY OF MODERN ASIA
McLeod  Limit 40  TR 9:30-10:45
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences, and History Department's African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern History Requirement.
Modern Asia uses lecture, video, discussion, and music to explore selected themes in Asian history from c. 1400 to the present, focusing this semester on the intertwined modern histories of China, Japan, and Vietnam. Topics include traditional empires and institutions, the impact of imperialism and world wars, the rise of nationalism and communism, the Chinese Revolution, Japan's post-war "Economic Miracle," Three Indochina Wars, including the "Vietnam Conflict," and the promises and perils of globalization. Requirements include attendance, reading assignments, and two in-class, essay-style examinations.

Students will view a variety of documentary films on women, hear from guest speakers and read materials relating to the topics covered in the films. The films cover both historical and contemporary issues, within the United States and internationally. This course is crosslisted with WOMS291.

HIST307.010: THE U.S. IN THE EARLY NATIONAL PERIOD, 1789-1825
Heyrman  Limit 20/5/5  TR 9:30-10:45
Only sections 11 & 80 satisfy the second writing requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
History 307 traces the development of the early American republic from the 1780s to the 1830s, decades which witnessed transformations in every sphere of life. The federal Constitution converted a confederation of sovereign states into a national republic. The rise of competing political parties fostered the emergence of a more democratic and participatory civic life. The spread of the market revolution and new transportation networks gave rise to a national market economy. The growing popularity of evangelical Christianity reconfigured ideals of womanhood, manhood, and the family. While those changes created new opportunities for some Americans, the early republic also became more unequal in fundamental ways: slavery followed the spread of white settlement throughout the South; federal and state governments forcibly removed Indian tribes west of the Mississippi.
Lectures and readings focus on the debates among national political leaders about the structure, purposes, and policies of government, as well as on the experiences of ordinary Americans and their struggles to realize the Revolution’s ideals of liberty and equality.
HIST308.010: THE UNITED STATES IN THE ANTEBELLUM PERIOD
Bendler  Limit 40  MWF 9:05-9:55
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
Antebellum America is an examination of the political, social, economic, and cultural transformation of the United States from 1825 until the eve of the Civil War. This course will look at the rise and fall of the second party system, giving particular attention to the role of President Andrew Jackson and his political opponents such as Henry Clay and Daniel Webster. It will examine social and economic changes wrought by industrialization and the Market Revolution. Then it will examine concurrent cultural changes made manifest by the effects of the Second Great Awakening and the transcendentalist movement. The course will give attention to the growth of the United States across the North American continent, and it will examine the question of slavery and the progression toward disunion during the 1850s.

HIST309.010: MONEY, MARKETS, AND MISCHIEF: U.S. BUSINESS AND POLITICAL ECONOMY, 1865-PRESENT
Russ  Limit 40  MWF 11:15-12:05
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
From the “robber barons” of the Nineteenth Century to Bill Gates and Martha Stewart, this course will examine the ways in which business and business leaders have played a central role in American life. Among topics that we will explore are the development of America’s consumer culture, American business abroad, the role of foreign business activities in the U.S., and how McDonalds, Disney, and the Mall came to be our ubiquitous national symbols. The course will consist of lectures, weekly discussion of core reading assignments, and the research and writing of a paper.

Special attention will be paid to changes in government, the economy, popular culture, civil rights, social justice, and grassroots political action. Students will learn through reading, discussion, and both short and long writing assignments.

HIST318.011: COLONIAL AMERICA
Davies  Limit 40  MWF 1:25-2:15
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
This course will examine the complicated interactions among people of African, European, and Native American descent in the Americas between 1492 and 1763. Through reading primary and secondary sources, as well as engaging in research, writing, class discussion, and historical role-playing, we will work to understand how colonial Americans perceived themselves and their world--their views of religion and magic, war and peace, and freedom and slavery--and how they responded to their roles within existing social, economic, and political systems. This course is meant to help you gain an understanding of the important events and significant developments in colonial American history, interpret the significance of those events and developments, and develop historical thinking skills.
HIST326.010: AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY SINCE THE CIVIL WAR
HIST326.011: WRITING: AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY SINCE THE CIVIL WAR

Armstrong Dunbar Limit 20/10 MWF 10:10-11:00
ONLY section 011 satisfies the second writing requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
In this class we will examine the institution of slavery from 1619 through the Civil War. This course has a number of goals, one of which is to examine the “peculiar institution” over space and time within colonial and antebellum America. We will spend a great deal of time exploring the similarities and differences between slavery in the North and the South, as well as the function of slavery in the Caribbean. In addition to becoming familiar with seminal texts in African American history we will also examine key primary sources. This course is crosslisted with BAMS335.
HIST337.010: TOPICS IN AMERICAN HISTORY: AMONG THE AMERICANS
HIST337.080: HONORS: AMONG THE AMERICANS
Alchon Limit 20/5 TR 3:30-4:45

These sections satisfy the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.

To take the measure of contemporary American life and character is to launch upon an adventure in moral imagination. It is also to enter upon a longstanding conversation about American virtue and default, about evil done and denied, about the things worth saving, and about the circumscribed fate of Americans without money enough to matter. This then is conversation of the best sort, at once alert, discerning, and unafraid of judgment. Those students who rise to these requirements will also rise into an adult seriousness, into a sensibility better able to measure the promises of American life.

HIST337.011: AMERICAN SPORTS HISTORY
Lanctot Limit 40 M 6:00-9:00

This course will trace major developments in American sports history since the Civil War. A number of topics will be discussed including: The professionalization of sports and the transformation from amateur game to big business, industrial sport, race and the evolving position of African American athletes, mass media’s effect on sports, the shifting role of women in sports, and the “Golden Age” of sports in the 1920s and the creation of athletic celebrities. Although lectures and videos will comprise a good part of class time, class discussion is also a major component of this course. Knowledge of current sports is not a prerequisite for this course. Course grade will also be based on two exams and a paper.

We will also spend time on current developments during the Gorbachev revolution. Readings will vary, including basic text book, momoir literature, fiction, original documents (in translation). If possible, we will also show some movies.

HIST365.011: TOPICS IN ASIAN HISTORY: MODERN CHINA 1600s TO THE PRESENT
Wang  Limit 40  TR 2:00-3:15
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
This section satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This course introduces students to modern Chinese history from the 1600s to the present. It provides students with insights into some issues that significantly influenced modern Chinese history with the aim of understanding what China was in the past, what China is today, and what China might be in the future. Students will explore the rise and prosperity of Manchu-ruled Qing China (1636/1644–1912), China’s decline with the coming of Western powers in the 19th century, China’s transformation into a modern nation-state after the nationalist and communist revolutions in the 20th century, and the so-called “rise of China” in the 21st century.

HIST365.012: TOPICS IN ASIAN HISTORY: THE U.S. IN ASIA & THE PACIFIC

HIST373.011: WRITING: MODERN IRELAND: 1660-PRESENT
Montaño                   Limit 30/5                    TR 11:00-12:15
ONLY section 11 satisfies the second writing requirement of the College of Arts and Science.
This survey of Irish history will cover the period between the plantations and partition. The issues of “Irishness” and Anglo-Irish relations--cultural, religious, economic, social, and political--will dominate the lecture topics. Readings will include Irish myths, Irish literature, and Anglo-Irish political debates, all with an eye towards Irish, Unionist, and English constructions of Ireland and the Irish. There will be no attempt to resolve the longstanding/current conflict in this course.

HIST375.010: BRITAIN SINCE 1714
Wasson                    Limit 40                     MWF 11:15-12:05
Britain was the first industrial society and amassed the largest empire in human history. The rise of almost every element of modernity from democracy to feminism and technology to mass culture can only be understood by studying Britain since 1714. The world today was shaped by the rise and fall of the British Empire. This course also examines the growth and defense of liberal values in the wars against European tyranny from Napoleon to Hitler.
HIST381.010: ISLAM AND THE WEST: HISTORY OF MUTUAL PERCEPTION
HIST381.080: HONORS: ISLAM AND THE WEST: HISTORY OF MUTUAL PERCEPTION
Matthee Limit 35/5 MW 3:35-4:50
These sections are NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
This course satisfies the Multicultural requirement of the University of Delaware.
An admixture of fear, suspicion and fascination has long marked mutual views between the Western, mostly Christian, world and the world of Islam. This course examines the expression of these views, and traces their evolution over time in light of military aggression, commercial expansion, travel and discovery. We will see how “our” current anxieties about Muslim radicalism and “their” resentment of Western “imperialism” originated in medieval religious polemics; how the Crusades and the Ottoman conquest of southeastern Europe shaped mutually antagonistic views, and how in modern times these have been reinforced by colonialism, Zionism and, recently, mass immigration. But we will also see how until the onset of the modern age with its increasingly rigid ethnic and religious boundaries, the differences we now think are primordial mattered much less to people in the (Islamic) Middle East. We will learn how mutual fear and suspicion are intertwined with the lure of the other, how Westerners have often found themselves drawn to the “exotic” Orient as a form of escapism, while Muslims have long been ambivalent about the West and its symbols, seduced by the promise of modernity, especially personal freedom, and struggling with the anxieties created by that same modernity.

HIST382.010: HISTORY OF WESTERN MEDICINE
Buckley Limit 65 TR 2:00-3:15
This section is NOT offered as 2nd writing this semester.
This course examines the intellectual and social history of medicine in the West, with an emphasis on changes in medical theory and practice during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Topics include the laboratory revolution and rise of germ theory; the role of midwives and nurses in medical care; medical professionalization and debates about quackery; changing disease patterns and therapies; and state vs. individual responsibility in matters of public health.

HIST411.010: SEMINAR: MODERN US POLITICAL ECONOMY
HIST411.080: HONORS SEMINAR: MODERN US POLITICAL ECONOMY
Alchon  Limit 12/3  M 3:35-6:35
Pre-requisite: HIST 268, or by permission.
Both sections satisfy second writing requirement of the College of Arts and Sciences.
In its larger and oldest sense, political economy marries historical inquiry and social criticism. This readings seminar seeks to do much the same as it introduces the American debates over authority, power, and democratic possibility, particularly as these have developed since the advent of corporate capitalism. The "managerial revolution;" the idea and significance of the middle class; the problems posed by meritocracy and by inherited privilege; and the questions forced by the American imperium ...these are among the topics to be covered.

HIST474.010: SEMINAR IN BRITISH HISTORY: WINSTON CHURCHILL: MYTH AND REALITY
Wasson  Limit 15  M 3:35-6:35
Pre-requisite: HIST 268, or by permission.
This section satisfies the DLE requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
Winston Churchill was arguably the greatest man of the twentieth century – the savior of Western civilization. His reputation, however, has increasingly come into question. How do historians assess the life of an individual so enshrouded by mythic grandeur? Churchill was at the center of world events from the apogee of imperialism through the World Wars into the midst of the Cold War. His achievements as a soldier, journalist, historian, novelist, painter, diplomat, politician, and orator span an extraordinary range. Students will examine primary sources such as diaries, speeches, memoirs, and journalism associated with Churchill’s life and then the work of modern scholars as they learn how historians measure and make sense of the past. A substantial research paper is required.

HIST475.010: SEMINAR: 20TH CENTURY EUROPE
HIST475.080: SEMINAR: HONORS: 20TH CENTURY EUROPE

Both sections satisfy 2nd writing requirement of the College of Arts and Sciences.
This is an in-depth research and writing seminar in Russian, Soviet, and twentieth-century European history. Each student will select a research and writing topic, based on the student's interests and in consultation with the professor, and she or he will spend the semester reading in that topic. Students will work individually with the professor on their topics, but the class will also meet periodically for progress reports, discussion, and final presentations. In the course of the semester, each student will produce, in addition to class presentations, a final paper. Grades will be based in part on class presentations, but mostly on a final paper that will be approximately 20 pages in length. Please note, this course presumes at least a mid-level university-course background in Russian, Soviet, or twentieth-century European history.

Pre-requisite: HIST 268, or by permission.
ONLY section 011 satisfies the 2nd writing requirement of the College of Arts and Sciences. This course satisfies the Multicultural requirement of the University of Delaware.*

This seminar looks at the relationship between global commodities demand and Latin America societies, from colonial times to the present. We consider the products, such as sugar, silver, bananas & coffee, whose export shaped colonial and post-colonial Latin American economies. The commitment of vast regions to these commodities influenced landholding and labor arrangements, which were frequently the sources of social friction, violent resistance, and persistent inequality. Our historical grounding allows for examination of contemporary debates over land use, ecological change, labor and power in relation to issues such as ecotourism and the transnational drug trade. Students will produce a final research project focused on a particular commodity and region.

HIST602.010: SEMINAR: EUROPEAN HISTORIOGRAPHY
Brophy
Limit 15
M 2:30-5:30
History graduate students only or permission of instructor.

This course examines diverse approaches and methods practiced by European historians since the 1960s. With primary focus on social, political, and intellectual history, this course also aims to assess the impact of such allied disciplines as anthropology, feminist studies, literary theory, cultural studies, and political theory on historical method. With this cursory exposure, students might better understand the methodological framework of their discipline, what fields will best suit their program, and what historiographical issues they find most intriguing.
HIST611.011: SEMINAR IN AMERICAN HISTORY: THE EARLY REPUBLIC
Heyrman Limit 15 T 2:00-5:00
History graduate students only or permission of instructor.
Advanced readings in the early republic (1790-1830); emphasis on social and cultural history.

HIST617.010: SEMINAR IN GENDER & WOMEN’S STUDIES
Davis Limit 15 W 2:30-5:30
This reading seminar introduces students to major historical themes and historiographical trends in the histories of women, gender, and sexuality in the United States. Readings will include the period of European encounter with native populations in North America and the transatlantic slave trade, the colonial period and Early Republic and the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Topics will include racial, ethnic, and religious diversity (and intersectionality) in these fields, women and gender in American politics, gender as a category of analysis, and sexuality (and "queer" history) as an interpretive lens.

HIST633.010: SEMINAR IN AMERICAN HISTORY: THE U.S. IN THE 20TH CENTURY
Gill Limit 15 T 2:00-5:00
Graduate students only or permission of instructor.
This course will use monographs and articles to introduce students to the major historiographical debates in 20th Century U.S. History. Emphasizing texts written in the last two decades, this course seeks to provide a foundation of historical knowledge that will help students prepare doctoral exam reading lists in Modern America. Furthermore, this course will incorporate texts and assignments designed to further students’ professional development as scholars, teachers, and public historians.

HIST654.010: VERNACULAR ARCHITECTURE
Sheppard Limit 15 W 3:35-6:35
History graduate students only or permission of instructor.
Study of traditional American folk architecture from the 17th century to the present. Examination of changes in construction, house types and decoration in vernacular buildings, as well as issues of regional differences and individual craftsmanship.

HIST730.010: TOPICS IN THE MODERN WORLD: CHINA
Wang Limit 12 T 6:00-9:00
History graduate students only or permission of instructor.
This course is a seminar designed to encourage discussions of some key issues of late imperial and modern Chinese history since the 1600s. Each week one or two students will prepare short response papers for discussion, and one student will act as Discussion Initiator and open the discussion by making a 5-10 minutes presentation. Students are required to write a research paper at the end of the semester. No examinations.

HIST803.010: RESEARCH AND WRITING SEMINAR: AMERICA TO 1860
Matson Limit 12 T 6:00-9:00
History graduate students only or permission of instructor.
This course offers training in historical research and writing. Students will produce a paper on a topic in U. S. history since 1860, and the papers should provide the foundation for a scholarly article or conference presentation. The course will emphasize the importance of revision, since students will have to incorporate suggestions from their peers and the instructor in the final version of their papers.

MUSEUM STUDIES COURSES
