Both sections satisfy the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & the History Education BA degree.
This course considers the political, social, and cultural history of the Middle East from the 16th century to the present with special attention to Egypt, Lebanon, Iraq, Turkey, and Iran. Topics include: the effects of the Western commercial and military intrusion; the breakup of the Ottoman empire after World War I; the formation of national states; the clash of ideologies—Arab unity vs Islamic fundamentalism; the Iranian Revolution of 1978-79 and its consequences and the implications of the “Arab Spring”.

HIST 135.011: INTRODUCTION TO LATIN AMERICAN HISTORY
Robles       Limit: 40 TR 9:30-10:45
This section satisfies the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & the History Education BA degree.
Introduces students to the history of Latin America from first indigenous contact with Europeans to recent times. Topics include pre-conquest societies; Iberian colonization and colonial society; the transition to independence; nineteenth-century national development; twentieth-century urban industrialization; revolutionary political movements and the region’s changing relationship to the United States.

HIST 138.010: EAST ASIAN CIVILIZATION – JAPAN
Flaherty     Limit: 70 TR 11:00-12:15
This section satisfies the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & the History Education BA degree.
This course is an introduction to the history, philosophies, religions, and cultures of Japan through the early 20th century. Who dipped that briny spear? Were emperors born gods? What was a warrior monk? Did a Japanese woman write the world’s first novel? Why did gaki eat earwax? What is a samurai? Why and how did shoguns send Jesuits and other Europeans packing? Shinto or Buddhism? Was Meiji modernization really a miracle? This course will answer these and many other questions, while explaining the relevance of the past to the present.
HIST 140.010: HISTORY OF MODERN ASIA
McLeod  Limit: 35  MW 8:40-9:55 (online)

This section satisfies the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & History Education BA degree.

Using lectures, discussion, images, music and readings, the course explores the intertwined histories of three Asian countries: China, Japan, and Vietnam from c. 1600 to the present. Emphasis is on the impact of imperialism; the two World Wars and anti-colonial revolution in shaping contemporary Pacific Asia.

HIST 146.010: INTRODUCTION TO JEWISH CULTURE AND HISTORY
HIST 146.080: HONORS SECTION
Horowitz  Limit: 20/5  M 6:00-9:00

Both sections satisfy the University’s multi-cultural requirement.

Focus on Jewish history from the Biblical period to the present. Study the origins of a group of people who call themselves, and whom others call, Jews. Focus on place, movement, power/powerlessness, gender, and the question of how to define Jews over time and place. Explores Jews as a group of people bound together by a particular set of laws; looks at their dispersion and diversity; explores Jews' interactions with surrounding cultures and societies; introduces the basic library of Jews; sees how Jews relate to political power. This course is cross-listed with JWST 146.

HIST 152.010: AMERICAN APOCALYPSE – THE CIVIL WAR
Heyrman  Limit: 70  MWF 11:15-12:05

American apocalypse explores the causes, character, and consequences of the Civil war. We will begin by investigating the deepening estrangement of North and South in the 1830’s & 1840’s and the pivotal role played by slavery in that process of alienation. Our attention turns next to the decade of the 1850’s and the series of crises that propelled the South toward secession in 1861. A consideration of the fighting itself and the impact of military conflict on the Confederate and Union home fronts will follow. We will conclude the semester by assessing the Civil War’s legacy and lessons.

HIST 170.010: PLAGUES AND PEOPLES IN HUMAN HISTORY
HIST 170.080: HONORS SECTION
Bil  Limit: 65/5  TR 11:00-12:15

Both sections satisfy the History Department’s Pre-1700 requirement.

Epidemics slaughter people far more effectively than wars (WWI: 18 million vs. 20-25 million for the Great Influenza of 1918-19). Using John Aberth’s The First Horseman: Disease in Human History, this course will closely examine how societies in the past have explained and dealt with rampant killer diseases (e.g. the Black Death). Students will also do disease histories of their own families or of famous, well-documented families (e.g. the Medici of Florence) and investigate closely how one historic society understood and combated a particular disease.
Both sections satisfy the History Department’s Pre-1700 requirement.

In this course we explore the history of the First State from the time of European contact to the end of the 20th century. Particular attention is paid to slavery and civil rights, political, economic, and social history, and key roles that Delaware played in the nation’s history. The course features lectures and discussion of assigned reading materials. In addition to three exams, there is also a short research paper.

Examine the military activities of the United States, and of the thirteen British colonies that would become the United States, from the founding of those colonies to the present day. Explore sufficient European background to provide context and to explain its contributions to American military development. Examine changes in popular attitudes towards participation in the military, in preferred strategy and tactics, in military administration, and in the contribution of new technologies.

This section satisfies the University’s multi-cultural requirement.
This course examines African American struggles for freedom, equality, and citizenship from the 1940s to the present.
This course is cross-listed with AFRA 220.

In this course we will be learning about the history and development of Hollywood and the movie industry as modern business and spectacle, greatly influential in American (and world) culture today. We will be viewing and discussing certain classic American films and film genres. Topics include: the Hollywood celebrity machine and the “star system”; trends in direction and design; the “studio system”, business and corporate structure; themes of gender, race and “making it in America”; the gangster films; the Colby War and American filmmaking; sex, violence and censorship.
HIST 227.010: HISTORICAL SCIENCE
HIST 227.080: HONORS SECTION
Bil  Limit: 35/5  TR 3:30-4:45
This course surveys the history of science from classical antiquity to the modern period. Topics for consideration include Ancient Greece, Islamic science, the “Scientific Revolution” and “Enlightenment”, Darwinian natural selection, and the formation of “Big Science” in the twentieth century and beyond. Rather than focusing strictly on scientific theories and how they emerged, we will examine the cultural context of scientific thought: How did historical actors, institutions and global exchange of knowledge construct and diffuse ideas of science? How did social and political issues frame scientific explanation of the universe and the laws that govern it? We’ll look at the role played by European empires in transmitting worldviews and technologies and in spawning new ideas of Orientalism and racism. We’ll also look at how astronomical, geological, biological, and chemical theories emerged, questioned, and threatened established conceptions of authority. No advance knowledge of science is necessary.

HIST 254.010: JEWSSection: HISTORICAL SCIENCE
HIST 254.080: HONORS SECTION
Zavadivker Limit: 85/5  MWF 9:05-9:55
This course focuses on the infamous "Final Solution" with particular emphasis on the roots of Anti-Semitism; National Socialist policies and plans; ghetto and camp life; the Einsatzgruppen; resistance; the politics of rescue and the art and literature of the Holocaust. This course is cross-listed with JWST 254 and counts towards the Jewish Studies minor.

HIST 268.012: SEMINAR: AMERICAN RADICALISM
Johanningsmeier Limit: 15  TR 2:00-3:15
This course will involve study of certain major themes, problems, and personalities of American radicalism since the 19th century. We will begin by focusing on the development of various forms of anti-slavery and anti-capitalist radicalism in the US, including abolitionists and democratic socialists, continuing with Communists and anti-Communists through the 1950s, and assessing the New Left and counterculture of the 1960s. However, we will also be discussing anarchism, feminist and African-American influences, radical unionism, postmodern critiques, and gender radicalism. The central requirements of the course are readings, discussion, and a research paper based on primary and secondary research. This section satisfies the University’s DLE requirement.

HIST 268.013: SEMINAR: DISABILITIES IN THE AMERICAN EXPERIENCE
HIST 268.083: HONORS SECTION
Virdi Limit: 13/2  MW 3:35-4:50
Both sections satisfy the University’s DLE requirement. This course is designed to build a mature understanding of how the life circumstances and prospects of people with disabilities are shaped by the tenor and contents of entrenched attitudes, barriers and representations of bodies. Since technology is so closely related to disability, this course introduces a critical framework for understanding how technologies can reveal individual experiences with disability, notions of citizenship, gender, sexuality, identity, and accessibility. Applying a “hands-on” material culture approach, we will examine different technologies to analyze medial and prosthetic technologies to enrich, marginalize or stigmatize people with disabilities. We will also historicize concepts such as “impairment vs disability” and “ableism” and examine how medical ideas reinforced “acceptable norms” for bodily behavior and how this approach was challenged by people with disabilities.

HIST 268.014: SEMINAR: FACISM AND COMMUNISM IN EUROPE
HIST 268.084: HONORS SECTION
Cruz Limit: 13/2 M 3:35-6:35

This section satisfies the University’s DLE requirement.
Fascism, communism and to a lesser degree, anarchism seemed to offer efficient and rapid solutions to the economic, social and political troubles created by World War I and the Great Depression. For that reason, these ideologies 16 captivated the imagination of many Europeans during the 1930’s. However, the radical nature of their solutions took European politics to the brink of armed confrontation. This seminar will explore the developments that led up to that polarization through the study of the Spanish Civil War (1936-39) and the rise of the Nazi Party in Germany. Students will write a research paper based on a variety of primary sources available at the University library and the Internet.

HIST 291.010: WOMEN’S HISTORY THROUGH FILM

HIST 368.010: MODERN CHINA (1600s-PRESENT)
Wang          Limit: 35          TR 9:30-10:45
Section satisfies the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & History Education BA degree.
This course introduces students to modern Chinese history from 1600 to the present. It provides students with insights into several issues that significantly influenced modern Chinese history with the aim of understanding what China was in the past, what China is today and what China might be in the future. This course chronologically examines China’s changes to illustrate a dynamic image of China that has dominated the East Asian world for centuries. Students will explore the rise and prosperity of Manchu-ruled Qing dynasty; China’s decline with the coming of Western powers in the 19th-century; China’s transformation into a modern nation-state after the nationalist and communist revolutions in the first half of the 20th-century and the People’s Republic of China’s rise since the second half of the 20th-century.

HIST 374.010: A PLAYER, A VIRGIN, AND A REGICIDE: TUDOR & STUART ENGLAND (1485-1688)
HIST 374.011: SECOND WRITING SECTION
Montaño          Limit: 20/10          TR 11:00-12:15
Both sections satisfy the History department’s Pre-1700 requirement. Only section 011 satisfies the University’s 2nd writing requirement.
This is an introductory survey of English history from the War of the Roses to the end of the Stuart dynasty. The course will examine the relationship between social, economic, religious, intellectual, and constitutional developments as well as the transition from the medieval to the early modern period. The readings will emphasize the use of primary materials as cultural evidence, with special attention paid to the tensions between tradition and innovation in these years. A key question throughout will be the merits of focusing on continuity or change in English history.

HIST 377.010: RADICALISM AND REVOLUTIONS: ISLAMIC MOVEMENT/MODERN MIDDLE EAST
HIST 377.080: HONORS SECTION
Matthee          Limit: 30/5   MWF 2:30-3:20
Both sections satisfy the University’s multi-cultural requirement and the African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & History Education BA degree.
This course will explore the contexts, dynamics, structures, and ideologies of several Islamic movements which since 1700 have arisen in the Middle East and the wider Islamic world. It seeks to provide a historical framework for a better understanding of the modern expression of Islamic “fundamentalism” based on examples in the past as well as in the present. Emphasis will be placed on Egypt, Lebanon, Iran, and Palestine in the modern period, as well as on the more recent phenomenon of "global jihad." Lectures. Documentaries. Fifteen-page paper, midterm and final.
HIST 379.010: ARCHEOLOGY AND COLONIALISM IN NORTH AMERICA
De Cunzo     Limit: 5     TR 2:30-3:20
This section satisfies the History department’s Pre-1700 requirement.

the study of the cultural history of eastern North America beginning with the period of initial European contact. This course is cross-listed with ANTH 379.

HIST 382.010: HISTORY OF MEDICINE
HIST 382.080: HONORS SECTION
Virdi     Limit: 20/10     MWF 12:20-1:10
Both sections satisfy the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts & Sciences.
The dread of disease, physical pain, and mental suffering has always loomed large in human experience. This course examines the changing intellectual, institutional, and social relationships that have framed the practice of medicine from antiquity to the 21st century, examining how different cultures have historically approached health and healing. With special focus on American history, we will consider how medicine and health have both shaped, and been shaped by, larger political and cultural trends such as race, immigration, sexuality, gender, and disability. We will consider several ongoing themes: the interplay between disease and explanation; the relationship between patients and practitioners; the pluralistic medical marketplace; the ethics of human and medical experimentation; professionalism and quackery; and matters of public health. We will examine medical history as it has been influenced by prominent individuals (Vesalius, Lister, Curie), as well as broader cultural trends shaping the practice (technology, genetics). No prior background to the history of medicine or science is required.
HIST 388.010: AMERICAN INDIAN HISTORY
HIST 388.011: SECOND WRITING SECTION
HIST 388.080: HONORS SECTION
Joyce    Limit: 20/7/3            TR 2:00-3:15

All sections satisfy the University’s multi-cultural requirement. Only section 011 satisfies the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts & Sciences.

This course is organized into four interconnected themes or paths that we will explore. These themes reflect both the perspectives and experiences of Indians in America. Our goal is for you to leave this class with a deeper understanding of what it has meant to be an Indigenous person in America from their emergence to the present.

We will seek out the stories embedded in many forms of evidence, both primary and secondary in nature, such as tribal and personal stories; visual images and material culture, written language texts and video accounts. Guests from various tribes and Indian nations will periodically join our discussions so that you can ask questions about how their people have navigated these four paths. We will attend the annual Iron Hill Science Center Indian Powwow in the fall, and plan for an optional trip to the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington DC in order to gain even more insight into Native American culture and perspectives.

HIST 396.010: TOPICS IN WORLD HISTORY: THE 20TH CENTURY EMPIRES, WARS, & REVOLUTIONS
McLeod    Limit: 35         MW 3:35-4:50 (online)

This section satisfies the African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement for the History BA & History Education BA degree.

Using lectures, readings, discussion, and analysis of primary sources, History 396 explores the long 20th Century, tracing the founding of Western and Japanese empires during the New Imperialism, the global conflicts (World Wars I and II) that undermined the colonial powers and offered new opportunities for national liberation to colonial peoples, and the post-1945 nationalist and communist revolutions in China, Vietnam, etc. Students will complete a term paper on an assigned topic as well as write final examination essays based on study questions provided in advance.

HIST 400.010: HISTORY CAPSTONE SEMINAR: HISTORY FROM BELOW
HIST 400.080: HONORS SECTION
Rawat    Limit: 13/2          MW 3:35-4:50

Both sections satisfy the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts & Sciences.

This course introduces students to methods of researching and writing histories of people belonging to non-elite groups, marked by class, gender, and race. Using case-studies from Asia and Europe, we will explore innovative approaches to sources that have contributed to this new field of research.
HIST 400.011: HISTORY CAPSTONE SEMINAR: U.S.-CHINA RELATIONS
Wang    Limit: 15            TR 2:00-3:15
This seminar explores the U.S.’s relations with China from 1784 to the present. It discusses how the U.S. and China became enemies from friends during the past two centuries through some major historical events that have had profound political, diplomatic, military, economic, social and cultural impacts on American, Chinese and East Asian history. These events include: U.S.-China tea trade and commercial treaties; Chinese immigration to the U.S. and Chinses Exclusion Act; the Burlingame Mission to the U.S.; American missionaries in China; the Open Door policy; the Boxer Indemnity Scholarship; the Chinese Civil War and Taiwan; the Korean War and U.S.-China conflicts; the Cold War; the American motion to drop A-bombs on Communist China; Ping-Pong Diplomacy; the Tiananmen Square Massacre and China’s U.S.-oriented globalization. No prior knowledge of Chinese history is required.

HIST 400.012: HISTORY CAPSTONE SEMINAR: AGE OF REVOLUTIONS
(1763-1870)
HIST 400.082: HONORS SECTION
Brophy    Limit: 13/2          MW 3:35-4:50
Both sections satisfy the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts & Sciences.
This seminar examines the leading political, social, and economic issues that made the period 1763 to the 1850s a watershed era in western and world history. Seminar meetings will discuss a range of critical themes that will examine the revolutionary era, which spans the American Revolution and Revolutions of 1848-49. The seminar concludes with a look toward the new forms of state building after 1850. Alongside readings and short written assignments, students will also write a fifteen-page research paper on a topic of their choice.

HIST 464.010: INTERNSHIP IN HISTORY
Undergraduate Studies Chair                TBD
This course satisfies the University’s DLE requirement.
For the Internship in History (HIST464), the student works with a faculty mentor. In conjunction with that mentor, the student identifies potential sites and defines the project that will emerge out of their experience in the field—including projects such as a site-based public history, experiential reflections, or a research paper. Students may seek assistance from the department’s internship coordinator in approaching appropriate sites and identifying potential faculty sponsors. Requires permission of instructor or (in cases of individual student internships) pre-approval from Department of History’s Undergraduate Studies Committee, which also determines the number of credits.

HIST 493.011: PROBLEMS IN TEACHING HISTORY & SOCIAL SCIENCES
Kim    Limit: 15            T 5:00-8:00
Helps beginning teachers carry out planned instructional strategies, analyze their teaching behavior, evaluate the effectiveness of their instruction, and modify their instructional plans based on their teaching experience. Open to Teacher Education students only from the School of Education, College of Arts & Sciences or elsewhere.
HISTORY GRADUATE COURSE OFFERINGS

HIST 603.010: HISTORIOGRAPHY OF TECHNOLOGY
Mohun    Limit: 10             M 2:00-5:00
This course is an introduction to historiographies and methodologies related to the study of material objects and ways of making and doing things in the physical world. We will be focusing on books and articles which emphasize the interaction between cultural meanings, social structures, and material objects and processes. Requirements include reading a book or its equivalent in articles each week, individually assigned supplementary readings, two book reviews, and an analytical paper. Students do not need any formal technical background or prior experience with the history of technology to take this.

HIST 610.010: INTRODUCTION TO THEORIES OF MATERIAL CULTURE STUDIES
Yates/Winn   Limit: 4    R 3:30-6:30
Introduces graduate students to the theories and practices of material culture studies. Explores the principles and theories that inform our investigation; they include (but are not limited to) material concepts; social life of things; modes of object analysis; methodologies and their application; objects as word and image; gendered objects; technology and manufactured things; lived and built environments. This course is cross listed with ARTH/EAMC/ENGL/MCST 610.

HIST 643.010: AFRICA UNDER COLONIAL RULE
Maloba    Limit: 7              M 3:35-6:35
Introduces various colonial policies of the European powers in Africa, emphasizing the comparisons and contrasts among these policies. Attention paid to the effect of Colonialism on Africa's economic, social and political development. This course is cross-listed with AFRA 643.

HIST 650.010: PROBLEMS IN CULTURAL HISTORY
Suisman   Limit: 10             R 2:00-5:00
Culture has been described as one of the two or three most complicated words in the English language, and the term is invoked today in a vast range of scholarship in the fields of history, anthropology, literary studies, communications, and others. Introduces students to the major themes and issues in the study of culture, especially from the historical perspective. With a mix of theoretical and historical readings, we will explore topics such as popular culture, hegemony, resistance, subcultures, the culture industry, visual culture, bodies, and space, from the eighteenth to the twentieth century (with an emphasis on the U.S.).
HIST 867.010: RESEARCH & WRITING SEMINAR: AMERICAN STUDIES
Ott         Limit: 10         W 6:00-9:00
This course introduces students to the variety of theories and methods scholars draw on in the interdisciplinary field of American Studies. The course’s purpose is to have students become knowledgeable about the history and evolution of the field. We will study foundational works and recent trends in the field so that students can incorporate these ideas and methods in their own work and know how to identify them in others. Along with critiquing pivotal authors, such as Karl Marx and Michel Foucault, we will analyze how scholars have relied on them in their own work. In other words, students will not only be able to identify Marxism but also a Marxist historian. In addition to being able to analyze pivotal works in American Studies, an equally important goal of the course is to be able to write critically about them and avoid the pitfalls of academic jargon.

HIST 867.011: RESEARCH & WRITING SEMINAR: GENDER & RACE
Parker     Limit: 10         T 2:00-5:00
This course focuses on professional-level research and writing, with particular emphasis on Gender and Race in American history. Students will produce original research papers and will become proficient at critiquing the work of their peers. Readings and discussions will cover methodological issues; evaluation of sources; interpretation of evidence; organization techniques for research; and the craft of writing. Interested students should begin thinking about their research topics before the first class meeting.
MSST 402.010/602.010: ARCHIVES AND PAPER COLLECTIONS: CURATORSHIP AND MANAGEMENT
Rifenburg Limit: 6/6 T 6:00-9:00
Introduction to theory and best practices in collecting and management of archives and paper collections in museums, archives, and other collecting institutions. Topics include collecting, processing and access, and care of manuscripts, paper ephemera, photographs, and other paper formats. Combines classroom instruction, demonstrations and field trips with group and individual hands-on projects. This is a dual-listed course with undergraduate and graduate students meeting at the same time.

MSST 464.010: MUSEUM INTERNSHIP
Cohen TBD
This course satisfies the University’s DLE requirement.
Internship in physical or digital exhibitions, education, public programs, community engagement, collections management, fundraising, marketing, or other administrative or service functions of museums, archives, or other organizations focused on interpreting evidence for non-scholarly audiences. MSST 411.010/611.010: TOPICS: MUSEUM INSTRUCTION – BUDGETING & FINANCE IN NON-PROFITS
Connolly Limit: 6/6 F 1:25-4:25
(1-cr short course - 2/11/22 to 3/4/22)
An intro to the principles and practical realities of financial management including operating and project budgeting for museums and historical organizations. This is a dual-listed course with undergraduate and graduate students meeting at the same time.

MSST 411.011/611.011: TOPICS: MUSEUM INSTRUCTION – GRANT WRITING
Mangieri Limit: 6/6 F 1:25-4:25
(1-cr short course – 3/11/22 to 4/8/22)
Cultural institutions are often dependent on grant funding to support everything from public programming to integrating new technology and capital projects. This course provides an overview of institutional support and grant writing for museums and non-profit organizations. Topics examined include both private and public funding practices, the increasing importance of community impact, developing a cohesive scope of work, budget, and timeline, as well as the necessary methodologies to ensure efficient grant management. Through seminars, online components, and a practicum, the course provides the building blocks for students to create fundable projects and prepare successful grant proposals. This is a dual-listed course with undergraduate and graduate students meeting at the same time.
For most cultural institutions, individual fundraising provides a major portion of its fundraising revenues. Donor funding covers expenses typically not covered by grants and contracts and serves as the backbone to the institution’s success in meeting its mission. This course is designed for students that aspire to senior level administrative, programming, or educational roles at nonprofit organizations, and will focus on individual mid-level and major gift fundraising strategies and practice. We will also cover annual fundraising and meaningful volunteer engagement opportunities that may lead to giving conversations for the institution. Through seminars and possible virtual/in-person donor meetings the course offers students opportunities to build crucial fundraising skills, allowing them to be highly valuable members of any nonprofit organization.

This is a dual-listed course with undergraduate and graduate students meeting at the same time.

MSST 467.010/605.010: HISTORICAL PROPERTIES
Cohen Limit: 5/10 W 2:00-5:00
Administration and interpretation of historical properties, including historic site surveys, preservation research, building restoration, conservation techniques and the establishment and attainment of interpretive objectives. Field trips to area historic sites. Combines classroom instruction and work projects at area historic sites.

This is a dual-listed course with undergraduate and graduate students meeting at the same time.

MSST 804.010: MUSEUM INTERNSHIP
Cohen TBD
Internship practice in administration, collections management, exhibition and interpretation at museums and related institutions. Students spend ten full weeks, or the equivalent, at the University Museum, Winterthur Museum, Hagley Museum, Longwood Gardens, or other acceptable institution.
Requires at least one semester course in museum studies and permission of instructor. This course is cross-listed with HIST 804.
