REQUIREMENTS

THE HISTORY MAJOR
(30 credit hours)

The thirty-hour major includes the following requirements:

a. HIST 101 or HIST 103 or HIST 205
b. HIST 102 or HIST 104 or HIST 206
c. HIST 268
d. One History course before 1700, not including HIST 101 and HIST 103.
e. Three credit hours in African, Asian, Latin American, or Middle Eastern History. (268 excluded)
f. Twelve credits at the 300 level or above. (Independent of the HIST 4xx seminar requirement)
g. One History Seminar at the 400 level or above, excluding HIST 403, 464*, 468*, 491, 493 and Independent Study.

*Depending on topic

Note:
All history majors must take HIST 268 in their sophomore year. If the history major is declared after the sophomore year, HIST 268 must be taken the following semester. In all cases, HIST 268 must be taken before a 400-level seminar.

[Effective for students matriculated fall 2009 or later]

History Minor Requirements

The History minor requires a minimum of fifteen credits, which are distributed as follows:

1. Three history courses at any level.
2. Two history courses at the 300 level or above, (excluding HIST 491 and 493).

The minor may be structured to permit concentration in a specific period, topic or approach, and fashioned to meet the individual needs of the student.

NOTE:
Only Education students are allowed to use HIST 491 toward a minor in History.
HISTORY MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS
(36 credit hours)

Concentrations provide an opportunity for History majors to pursue a more focused program of study. Those who have clear career objectives or wish to go on to graduate studies may find the concentrations particularly helpful. Concentrations are offered in the following fields: American, European, or World History. Concentration options are available for all majors.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS FOR CONCENTRATIONS:

Within the Department

• HIST 101 or HIST 103
• HIST 102 or HIST 104
• HIST268 History Seminar Note: HIST268 does NOT count toward concentration.
• History Course in Asian, African, Latin American, or Middle Eastern History
• History course before 1700, not including HIST 101 and HIST 103
• Six courses in the field of concentration, four of which must be history courses at or above the 300-level. With written approval of the advisor, a student may take two of these courses outside the Department of History.
• History seminar at the 400-level or above (excluding HIST403, 464*, 468*, 491, 493 and Independent Study)

Electives
After required courses are completed, sufficient elective credits must be taken to meet the minimum credit requirement for the degree.

- 36 credit hours in history.
- Twenty-seven credits from related Social Studies Disciplines.
- Twenty-nine credits in Professional Education. HIST491 must be taken during fall semester of senior year. (Student teaching and HIST493 must be taken spring semester of senior year.) Pre-requisite for HIST493 is HIST491.
- A 3.0 GPA in history courses and an overall 2.75 GPA, from time of application to student teaching.

History Education students are required to submit a learning portfolio and student teaching application by February of their junior year. For information about the program, consult your advisor or www.udel.edu/socialstudiesed

PHI ALPHA THETA

The Department supports the campus chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the international Honor Society in History. To be eligible for membership, an undergraduate must complete at least twelve semester hours in history, with a 3.1 average in history courses taken, and a 3.0 overall GPA excluding history. A maximum of 3 credit hours of online, transfer, or AP credits may be counted towards membership eligibility. Phi Alpha Theta, with chapters on college campuses in all fifty states, as well as Washington, D.C., Puerto Rico, Canada, and the Philippine Islands, is one of the most respected honor societies in the country. Its student members are eligible for one of a number of prizes and scholarship awards annually.

Initiation is held each spring for eligible students. Letters of invitation are mailed in early February. For more information, contact the Department of History, 236 John Munroe Hall.

HISTORY CLUB

The objective of this organization is to assist fellow students in research (especially younger students, who may not have had to perform research of a similar level before), enhance our own analytical skills, and promote the appreciation of history within the student body of the University of Delaware. Membership is open to all full-time, matriculated undergraduate students at the University of Delaware who agree with the purpose and object of the group. Visit the History Club website to learn more.

HIST104.010: WORLD HISTORY II
ENROLL THROUGH SECTIONS 104.020D-024D
Rawat Limit 100 MW+ 11:15-12:05
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. This course introduces students to the analysis of the modern world as a product of global connections of production, trade, and consumption from circa 1200 to modern times. It will illustrate these global networks through a study of commodities, such as spices, sugar, cotton, steel, cement, oil, among others. We will focus, not on regional or national histories, but on historical trends that connect regions and nations. Extending our understandings of globalization, the course will identify forms of interconnectedness that have shaped political, economic, social, and cultural changes across the world. Yet, the course will address following themes colonialism and empire, social and political hierarchies, slavery and labor migrations, and racism.

HIST104.011: WORLD HISTORY II
HIST104.081: HONORS SECTION
Flaherty Limit 42/5 MWF 10:10-11:00
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. World History (HIST104) explores the creation of our contemporary world through an examination of the global past, connecting events, experiences, systems, and processes to the present. The course does this through lectures, in-class exercises, and discussion grounded in the reading of primary sources (historical sources by people trying to make sense of their world as change happened).

Principal political, economic, cultural and social developments in world history from the 16th century to the present, relating the past to the present. Equal weight given to the history of Asia, Africa, the Americas and Europe.

HIST130.010: ISLAMIC MIDDLE EAST, 600-1500
Matthee               Limit 50    TR 9:30-10:45
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
It also satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement. This section also satisfies the Pre-1700 requirement.
This course offers an overview of Middle Eastern history from the beginnings of Islam until the age of European discovery and exploration. Surveying the background and circumstances of the rise of Islam, the creation of the Islamic Empire, and the subsequent political, social, economic, and religious history of Islamic west Asia and north Africa until the rise of the so called gunpowder states, the Ottoman, Safavid, and Mughal Empires, this course familiarizes students with a variety of cultures and the way in which they interacted and melded to become an overarching Islamic civilization. This course encourages students to consider the composite and variable nature of world cultures. It pursues comparisons and contrasts both within Islamic civilization itself—its Arab, Byzantine-Christian, Persian and Turkish contributions - and between that civilization and medieval Europe at various stages - initial confrontation and conquest, cultural and diplomatic exchange, Reconquista, Crusades. Lectures, discussion, reading. Take-home mid-term, term paper, and a final.

HIST134.011: HISTORY OF AFRICA
Maloba                Limit 60    MWF 11:15-12:05
This section satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This is an introductory course on African history south of the Sahara, from the earliest times to 1914. The course will introduce students to the major themes in African history during this vast period. Particular emphasis will be placed on pre-Colonial African political, social, and economic institutions; diversity in African political organizations; slave trade; the coming of European colonialism in Africa; African culture in the era of European imperialism This course is cross-listed with BAMS134

HIST135.010: INTRO TO LATIN AMERICAN HISTORY
ENROLL THROUGH SECTIONS HIST135.020D-024D
HIST135.080: HONORS SECTION
ENROLL THROUGH SECTION 135.080D
Buckley               Limit 85/20/15/5  MW+ 10:10-11:00
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
It also satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
Introduces students to the history of Latin America, from first indigenous contact with Europeans to recent times. Topics include pre-conquest societies, Iberian colonization and colonial society, the transition to independence, nineteenth century national development, twentieth-century urban industrialization, revolutionary political movements, and the region’s changing relationship to the United States.
HIST137.010: EAST ASIAN CIVILIZATION: CHINA
Wang  Limit 100  MWF 12:20-1:10
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
It also satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This course introduces Chinese history by discussing the diverse political, economic, social, and cultural entities of China and their structural transformations from prehistoric times to the present. It provides students with a critical approach to examining the unique characteristics of Chinese civilization and the rich historical legacies of the Chinese nation and society that are still defining their identities within and beyond China.

HIST152.010: AMERICAN APOCALYPSE: THE CIVIL WAR
Heyrman  Limit 75  MWF 9:05-9:55
American Apocalypse explores the causes, character, and consequences of the Civil War. We will begin by investigating the deepening estrangement of North and South in the 1830s and 1840s and the pivotal role played by slavery in that process of alienation. Our attention turns next to the decade of the 1850s and the series of crises that propelled the South toward secession in 1861. A consideration of the fighting itself—and the impact of military conflict on the Confederate and Union homefronts—will follow. We will conclude the semester by assessing the Civil War’s legacy and lessons.

HIST170.010: PLAGUES AND PEOPLES IN HUMAN HISTORY
HIST170.080: HONORS SECTION
Duggan  Limit 45/5  TR 2:00-3:15
Epidemics slaughter people far more effectively than wars (WW1 18 million, vs. 50+ million for the Great Influenza of 1918-19). Using William McNeill’s classic Plagues and Peoples, this course will examine closely how societies in the past have explained and dealt with rampant killer diseases, e.g. the Black Death. Students will also do disease histories of their own families or of famous, well-documented families (e.g., the Medici of Florence) and investigate closely how one particular historic society understood and combated a particular disease.

HIST200.010: HISTORY & GOVERNMENT OF DELAWARE
HIST200.080: HONORS SECTION
Russ  Limit 37/3  MWF 11:15-12:05
This course will consider the historic development of Delaware from its settlement during the Colonial era up to the present day. Although we will touch upon a wide variety of topics, the course will emphasize economics, politics, and community development in the period, while at the same time treating Delaware’s role in national events. The course will consist of both lectures and group discussion.

HIST205.010: U.S. HISTORY TO 1865
HIST205.080: HONORS SECTION
Matson  Limit 93/7  TR 9:30-10:45

HIST221.010: FILM & AMERICAN SOCIETY
Johanningsmeier Limit 70 T 6:00-9:00
In this course we will be learning about the history and development of Hollywood and the movie industry as modern business and spectacle, greatly influential in American (and world) culture today. We will be viewing and discussing certain classic American films and film genres. Topics include: the Hollywood celebrity machine and the “star system;” trends in direction and design; the “studio system,” business and corporate structure; themes of gender, race and “making it in America;” the gangster films; the Cold War and American filmmaking; sex, violence, and censorship.

HIST223.010: NATURE AND HISTORY
Ott Limit 44 TR 11:00-12:15
In this course, students will study the ways people have created nature displays dating back to cabinets of curiosity in the Renaissance and up to present day wildlife TV programs. We will analyze how people the world over have cataloged and exhibited plants and animals, including human beings, in venues such as botanical dictionaries, gardens and arboretums, private menageries, museum dioramas, TV and film, front yards, and zoos, among others. This interdisciplinary course will tie together the themes of nature, science, and popular culture. Its purpose is to have students learn about and analyze one of the central means that people encounter and engage with the natural world – as objects of display. At the end of it, students will be able to identify historic trends in human-nature encounters; they will have acquired skills in interpreting images, objects, and exhibitions; and they will be acquainted with pivotal works in the fields of environmental humanities and museum studies.

HIST241.010: HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY TO 1300
HIST241.080: HONORS SECTION
Frassetto  Limit 40/4  MWF 10:10-11:00
A survey of the evolution of Christianity from its origins to 1300. This course will examine the apostolic age and era of persecutions, the triumph of the church in the Roman Empire and Christianity and the barbarian kingdoms, and the church during the age of the papal monarchy and crusades.

HIST243.010: ANCIENT RELIGION & CIVILIZATION
HIST243.080: HONORS SECTION
Sidebotham  Limit 50/10  TR 11:00-12:15
This course outlines religion in Europe and the Near East from the Paleolithic period to the rise of Islam. The course covers religious beliefs, rituals, death and burial practices of ancient man and the construction and use of religious edifices. Power point presentations illustrate all the lectures.

HIST250.010: COMPARATIVE GENOCIDE
Zavadivker  Limit 60  TR 2:00-3:15
This section satisfies multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This course focuses on the infamous "Final Solution," with particular emphasis on the roots of Anti-Semitism, National Socialist policies and plans, ghetto and camp life, the Einsatzgruppen, resistance, the politics of rescue and the art and literature of the Holocaust. This course is cross-listed with JWST250.

HIST268.010: SEMINAR: VIETNAM CONFLICTS
McLeod  Limit 15  T 3:30-6:30
This course is open to majors only, or by permission.
This course satisfies the University of Delaware’s DLE requirement.
History 268, Vietnam Conflicts, explores the events Americans call the "Vietnam War" and Vietnamese Revolutionaries call “War to Resist America and for National Salvation” in the larger context of decolonization and revolution in the Vietnamese-speaking lands of the former French Indochina. Through readings, discussion, music, images, film, and lecture, class members will become familiar with a common body of information and interpretations. Each student will then select, in consultation with the instructor, a particular theme or topic that will become the subject of a research paper that will be presented orally to the seminar as well as submitted in written form to the professor at the end of the course.

HIST268.011: SEMINAR: RACISM & SOCIAL EXCLUSION, A GLOBAL HISTORY
Rawat  Limit 15  MW 3:35-4:50
This course is open to majors only, or by permission.
This course satisfies the University of Delaware’s DLE requirement.
This course will introduce students to the institutional practices of social exclusion practiced in much of the world in the twentieth century. Racism is the most visible form of exclusion in the world but there exists in the world forms segregation that have stigmatized large swath of population in various parts of the world on the grounds of occupation like the Untouchables in India and Japan. We will make a typology of such excluded groups through cases studies in the United States, Brazil, South Africa, India, and Japan. We will examine the role of “radical internationalism” in building global alliances, connecting organizations in Africa, Asia, Brazil, and the US, to challenge the ideologies and practices of racism and social exclusion in the twentieth century. Yet, we will also explore the promises and limitations of such global alliances on the struggles of socially excluded groups in the south.

HIST268.025: SEMINAR: WORLD WAR I
HIST268.085: HONORS SECTION
Bernstein Limit 12/3 W 3:35-6:35

These sections are open to majors only, or by permission. This course will feature some opening discussions on the history and nature of historical writing followed by some discussion of 19th century European history leading up to World War I. The heart of the course, however, will be careful individual supervision of the writing of a long (18-20 page) paper on any topic connected to the war. Topics may include political, social, intellectual, or technological history, for example, not just military. Students will present their findings in short presentations near the end of the semester.

HIST302.010: THE WORLD IN OUR TIME
HIST302.080: HONORS SECTION
Alchon Limit 22/3 TR 3:30-4:45

BOTH sections satisfy the 2nd writing requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. The World in Our Time explores the long twentieth century, an era of unsurpassed wonders and horror. It introduces some of the larger ideas and forces driving both modern times and the modern U.S., while emphasizing particular people who lived amidst and created their times. The course, then, examines the origins and course of Progress, Empire, and Genocide, and such things as Courage, Complicity, and Goodness. Ultimately, the course is interested in nothing less than the fate, the possibility, of Hope...

HIST308.010: ANTEBELLUM AMERICA
HIST308.080: HONORS SECTION*
Bendler Limit 32/3 MWF 12:20-1:10

This course covers the history of the United States from 1825 through 1861. We will look at the emergence of political developments during the “Age of Jackson,” looking at the increasingly democratic politics—for white males—that rose in these years, including the rise of the Second Party System. We will also study cultural and social changes such as the reform movements spawned in part by the Second Great Awakening, and other cultural developments such as Transcendentalism. And we will look at the rise of the belief in “Manifest Destiny” and the consequent expansion of the United States across the North American continent. And we will see the growing presence of the slavery issue, discussing the growth of the abolition movement and the emergence of slavery as the main national issue by the 1850’s and the consequent breakdown of the Second Party System, and the ultimate division of the United States after the presidential election of 1860.

*Honors students are expected to utilize at least two primary sources in preparation of the two papers assigned in the course. Such primary sources may include newspaper, pamphlets, or documents available in the on-line resources or Special Collections at the Morris Library. In addition, honors students will meet with the instructor to discuss those primary sources.
HIST310.010: CONFLICT AND CONFORMITY: THE UNITED STATES AFTER WORLD WAR II, 1945-1963
Lanctot    Limit 35    TR 9:30-10:45
This course will survey the major developments in the two decades following the end of World War II. Among the topics covered will be the Cold War, the Civil Rights movement, McCarthyism, suburbia, and the changing role of women. We will also examine other significant aspects of American life during this era, including the rock & roll revolution of the 1950s and the rise of television. Requirements will include a midterm, final, one paper, and several short homework assignments.

Turner    Limit 35    MWF 10:10-11:00
Modern America emerged from the broken promises of Reconstruction, the creation of Jim Crow, industrialization, immigration, the reform of American politics, and the newly built American empire.

HIST314.010: THE UNITED STATES, 1914-1945
Johanningsmeier    Limit 35    TR 12:30-1:45
This course will examine American politics, society, and economy during the period encompassing World Wars I and II and the Great Depression, what the historian Eric Hobsbawm has called the “Age of Catastrophe” in world civilization. We will be discussing the profound changes Americans wrought in their society and government as they were confronted with momentous challenges to their “way of life.” Midterm, final, and research paper.

HIST315.010: U.S. HISTORY FOR TEACHERS
Russ    Limit 35    M 3:35-4:50
Only open to Teacher Education students (from the School of Education, the College of Arts & Sciences, or elsewhere)
The purpose of this course is to conceptualize and organize American history content in ways that improve the teaching of Social Studies at the elementary and secondary school level. This course is restricted to elementary education majors.

HIST317.010: BUYING IN: CONSUMER CAPITALISM IN THE U.S.
Suisman    Limit 35    TR 11:00-12:15
Today we are awash in an ocean of consumer goods, and the language of buying and selling informs nearly all aspects of our society, from education to elections, from healthcare to the allocation of natural resources. In this course we will explore the origins and development of this contemporary phenomenon, with readings, lectures, and discussions designed to introduce students to the historical and theoretical foundations underpinning today's world. Our work will take us across a wide range of topics--from department stores and advertising agencies to television newsrooms and music recording studios--as a way to understand more abstract concepts like commodification, cultural capital, and globalization.
This course will focus on the history of the European settlements in North America. We will discuss interaction between European colonists and Native Americans, the establishment of colonies along the Atlantic coast and in the Spanish southwest, and the development of those colonies. We will examine colonization in an Atlantic context, looking at interaction between Europe, Africa, and the Americas. Finally, we will examine the development of Euro-American and Afro-American cultures.

This course will examine the historic contests that have emerged in the United States when the values of constitutionalism, rooted in the rule of law, have clashed with the values of democracy, rooted in majority rule. We will contrast the formal expressions of constitutional principles, emanating from the U.S. Supreme Court, with the competing interpretations of presidents, legislators, civil libertarians, laborers, dissidents, religious believers, and other activists. Our discussions will emphasize three broad areas of constitutional change: federalism, judicial review, and presidential powers. This course is cross-listed with CRJU324.

This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. ONLY section 011 is offered as 2nd writing this semester. This course is cross-listed with BAMS304.

This course will explore why, for many centuries, Jews have gravitated towards careers in business and commerce, as merchants, bankers, peddlers, and entrepreneurs. Jews have traded textiles and sugar across the Mediterranean Sea and Atlantic Ocean; established banks that funded industry and international trade; created firms that revolutionized fashion, food, and modern entertainment; and peddled consumer goods, whether carried in packs on their backs or sold through retail stores. These activities brought Jews success – and, too often, also made them targets of anti-Semitism. This course will explore the relationship between Jews and business, how and why Jews have so often turned to – and been successful at – commerce, and how this has in turn affected the acceptance of Jews in a world where they are a tiny minority. Expect several short papers, a midterm and final, a moderate amount of reading, a film or two, and some guest speakers. This course is cross-listed with JWST327.
The world is in motion; people and ideas, products, technologies, capital and diseases are travelling between regions and continents. Cities and cultures as well as family and labor market relations are changing as people are continually on the move. With increased border security and a “fear of numbers” of who belongs where, nation states are less capable of regulating policy areas independently. The movement of people has taken center stage in current events from Lampedusa, to erecting Mexican border walls, refugee securitization in the EU, and mass displacement globally from climate change. Every day, migrants are settling into societies that are themselves transforming. Integration thus becomes a moving target. Everyone needs to be prepared to embrace change. Migrants increasingly keep multi-stranded relations with their countries of origin, thereby building transnational spaces; others will after little time move on to third countries. All of them settle into motion. Politics has shown that an ‘in’ and ‘out’ approach to immigration and mobility policy is no longer viable. We need to repose the question. People are continually on the move, but human mobilities have been ascribed various valuations and interpretations across different cultures across time. Looking towards historical instances of mobility, wars, industry and environmental factors that have served as catalysts for displacement, this course will investigate theories, philosophies and histories of movement with a look at debates surrounding citizenship, inclusion, ethics, and the ways in which mobility is enacted within multi-layered contexts of space across time. This course explores the experiences of various transnational movers who widen the field of migration types: low-skilled labor, high-skilled labor, irregular, international travel, lifestyle, environmental, human trafficking and smuggling, asylum and refugee protection, internally displaced peoples, diaspora, remittances and root causes. From these exemplifications of mobility that compel those of diverse backgrounds to communally work and live together, built communities and nations are internally globalized and increasingly part of a cosmopolitan “one world.” The course aims to familiarize students with the foundational philosophies of mobility and historical instances of movement while critically engaging with current events on international migration. Students will have opportunities to think through their own experience as people on the move and will work on in collaborative group projects to debate aspects of migration and displacement from cultural, political, economic, social and historical contexts. This course is cross-listed with POSC329.
HIST339.010: TOPICS IN EUROPEAN HIST: IMPERIAL RUSSIAN HISTORY, C. 1600-1917
HIST339.080: HONORS SECTION
Zavadivker Limit 32/3 TR 11:00-12:15
This course will examine Imperial Russian history from the mid-seventeenth century to the 1917 Revolution. Topics include Russia’s growth as a geographically vast empire, the autocracy that accompanied this growth; and, the responses of Russian people to these two developments. Attention will focus in particular on cultural responses, including literature, painting and music.

HIST342.010: BARBARIAN EUROPE
HIST342.080: HONORS SECTION
Callahan Limit 30/5 MWF 11:15-12:05
BOTH sections satisfy the History Department’s pre-1700 requirement.
This lecture course will examine the political, social, and cultural development of the barbarian peoples in Western Europe during the early Middle Ages. Special attention will be given to the Church as an instrument of civilization. One hour exam, a paper, and a final.

HIST344.010: RENAISSANCE EUROPE
HIST344.080: HONORS SECTION
Duggan Limit 30/5 TR 9:30-10:45
BOTH sections satisfy the History Department’s pre-1700 requirement.
This course will examine the distinctive achievements of the Renaissance—art, humanism, expansion, and new inventions—and their interconnections with economic depression, population decline, political disorder, and a brutally competitive social climate. Lecture, discussion, exams, and several short papers.

HIST351.010: EUROPE IN CRISIS, 1919-1945
Wasson Limit 35 TR 12:30-1:45
This course examines the strife-torn decades in Western Europe following the First World War. The crisis of liberal democracies, the emergence of fascism and communism, the Spanish Civil War, and the origins of the Second World War will be the central political themes around which other significant social, cultural, and economic issues will be investigated.

HIST352.010: EUROPE, 1945 TO THE PRESENT
HIST352.011: 2nd WRITING
HIST352.080: HONORS SECTION & 2nd WRITING
Shearer Limit 20/5/5 MW 3:35-4:50
Only sections 011, and 080 satisfy the 2nd writing requirement this semester.
This course will examine major trends in European societies since the Second World War. We will examine the revival of Europe in the 1950s and ‘60s, its division during the Cold War, the hard times of the 1970s and ‘80s, and the struggle for a common European perspective in the 1990s. Along the way, we will examine intellectual and literary movements, music, fashion, and society, and social and ethnic upheavals such as the wars in the Balkans. We will attempt to place recent political and social revolutions in central Europe in historical perspective, and we will examine the future of the New Europe.

HIST366.000: INDEPENDENT STUDY

HIST369.010: CHINA SINCE 1949
Wang
Limit 35
MWF 9:05-9:55
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences. It also satisfies the History Department’s African, Asian, Latin American or Middle Eastern requirement.
This course explores Chinese history since 1949, focusing on the People’s Republic. It discusses five key themes as follows: 1) China’s political movements and their consequences, such as the Great Leap Forward, the Great Famine, the Great Cultural Revolution, and the Tian’anmen Square Incident; 2) China’s foreign policies and the regional conflicts in which it has participated, such as the Sino-Russian alliance and split, China’s involvement in the Korean War, Sino-American rapprochement through “Ping-Pong Diplomacy,” and the ongoing overland and maritime border conflicts with its neighboring countries; 3) China’s economic reforms and developments, including Soviet-oriented industrialization, Reform and Opening-up policy, urbanization, labor migration, and the decline of traditions; 4) Chinese women and gender equality movements, one-child policy, and changes in the national educational system; and 5) China’s border reconstruction and its multiethnic challenges, in particular in Xinjiang Uighur and Tibetan regions. Students are expected to engage in in-class discussion. RESTRICTION: Not open to freshmen.

HIST370.010: HISTORY OF MODERN JAPAN
HIST370.011: 2ND WRITING
Flaherty
Limit 25/5
MWF 12:20-1:10
Only section 011 is offered as 2nd writing this semester.
At the end of the nineteenth century, reformers in Japan turned to Europe and the United States as models for emulation and even imitation; their slogan: “civilization and enlightenment.” One hundred years later, the pendulum had swung. The Japanese and US bestseller Japan as Number One (written by Harvard professor of sociology Ezra Vogel) joined The Japan That Can Say No (written by nationalist Ishihara Shintaro) to argue that the world should learn from Japan. During the century in between, events in Japan drove politics, society, economics, and culture making Japan a major Asian and global influence. This course traces those stories, from the late 1800s to the recent past.

HIST380.010: HISTORY OF THE ARAB-ISRAELI CONFLICT
HIST380.080: HONORS SECTION
Matthee
Limit 15/5
TR 2:00-3:15
This section satisfies the Multi-cultural requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This course intends to contribute to a better understanding of the Arab-Israeli conflict by exploring its roots and its historical complexity. After examining the religious traditions of Judaism and Islam, the course will discuss the origins of Zionism as well as the nature of Arab/Ottoman and Levantine society in the 19th century. We will next study the relationship between the early Zionist settlers in Palestine, the indigenous Arab population, and the British mandate authorities, until the proclamation of the state of Israel in 1948. The final part will be devoted to the successive wars between Israel and its Arab neighbors, the rise of Palestinian nationalism, development and change in Israel, and the protracted search for coexistence and, ultimately, peace, between Jews and Arabs. Lectures, discussion, documentaries, reading of historical material. This course is cross-listed with JWST381.010/080.
HIST382.010: HISTORY OF WESTERN MEDICINE
HIST382.080: HONORS SECTION
Buckley       Limit 28/7                     MW 3:00-4:50
This course examines the intellectual and social history of medicine in the West, with an emphasis on changes in medical theory and practice during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Topics include the laboratory revolution and rise of germ theory; the role of midwives and nurses in medical care; medical professionalization and debates about quackery; changing disease patterns and therapies; and state vs. individual responsibility in matters of public health.

HIST384.010: EARLY IRISH HISTORY: FROM STRONGBOW TO CROMWELL, 1169-1659
Montañó       Limit 35                     MWF 1:25-2:15
The course will examine Irish history from the arrival of the Anglo-Normans sent by Henry II to the massive confiscations under Oliver Cromwell. The many divisions over social, economic, political and legal issues will be studied under the umbrella of cultural difference in order to study a problem now approaching 850 years. Myth, poetry, language, dress and land use will be some of the evidence used along with—in the last hundred years of the course—religious differences to try to understand the longstanding conflict in Ireland.

HIST411.011: SEMINAR IN AMERICAN HIST: RELIGION & MODERN AMERICAN CULTURE
HIST411.081: HONORS SECTION
Davis    Limit 12/3  TR 2:00-3:15
BOTH sections satisfy the DLE requirement for the College of Arts and Sciences.
This seminar focuses on the social, cultural, and political history of religion in the twentieth-century United States. Weekly readings in primary and secondary sources will highlight religion’s important if often contentious role in shaping modern American politics and culture. We will additionally consider the changing dynamics of religious ritual, faith, and identity. All students will complete a major term paper by the end of the semester.

BOTH sections satisfy 2nd writing requirement.
This is an in-depth research and writing seminar in Russian, Soviet, and twentieth-century European history. Each student will select a research and writing topic, based on the student's interests and in consultation with the professor, and she or he will spend the semester reading in that topic. Students will work individually with the professor on their topics, but the class will also meet periodically for progress reports, discussion, and final presentations. In the course of the semester, each student will produce, in addition to class presentations, a final paper. Grades will be based in part on class presentations, but mostly on a final paper that will be approximately 20 pages in length. Please note, this course presumes at least a midlevel university-course background in Russian, Soviet, or twentieth-century European history.

HISTORY GRADUATE COURSE OFFERINGS

HIST603.010: HISTORIOGRAPHY OF TECHNOLOGY
Mohun
Limit 12
W 2:30-5:30
This course is an introduction to historiographies and methodologies related to the study of material objects and ways of making and doing things in the physical world. We will be focusing on books and articles which emphasize the interaction between cultural meanings, social structures, and material objects and processes. Requirements include reading a book or its equivalent in articles each week, individually assigned supplementary readings, two book reviews, and an analytical paper. Students do not need any formal technical background or prior experience with the history of technology to take this.

HIST606.010: ISSUES IN AMERICAN MATERIAL CULTURE: MATERIAL CULTURE IN COMMUNAL UTOPIAS
Guiler
Limit 2
M 9:00-12:00
(meets at Winterthur)
Course examines communal utopias that experimented with new ideas of religion, sexuality, economics, craftsmanship, sustainability, society, and culture; study in Winterthur Museum's object and library collections, community fieldwork, and a public humanities practicum. This course is cross-listed with MSST606 & EAMC606.

HIST611.011: MODERN AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY
Gill
Limit 12
T 6:00-9:00
This course will interrogate the meaning of the modern experience for African Americans in the 20th and 21st centuries. In particular, we will examine the various strategies African Americans used to resist racial oppression. Furthermore, the concept of "community" will be explored and challenged as we explore contestations over gender, color, and class among African Americans. While the course is designed for historians, it explicitly incorporates scholarship in other disciplines to encourage students to develop interdisciplinary approaches to the study of African American life. By reading texts written in the last decade, we will explore major themes and developments in the interpretation of African American History. Students will also be equipped to critically evaluate current trends in the historiography as well as gain insight into formulating their own research agenda.
HIST627.010: ANTEBELLUM AMERICA
Heyerman               Limit 6       M 2:30-5:30
This reading seminar focuses on the contests over slavery and gender, religion and reform that deepened the alienation of North and South between 1830, and the outbreak of the Civil War.

HIST667.010: ART & CRAFT OF INNOVATIVE HISTORY
Suisman               Limit 12       T 2:00-5:00
This seminar introduces graduate students to a variety of methods and questions that have shaped the field in recent decades. Exploring a range of American, European, and non-western histories, the course charts some of the most generative approaches to the study of history to provide a better understanding of the field’s diversity, richness, and its present challenges. Alongside weekly seminar discussions of a featured book or selected articles, students will write two short essays and a longer term paper.

HIST680.010: STUDIES IN WORLD HISTORY: WRITING THE HISTORY OF EMPIRES
White                  Limit 12       W 6:00-9:00
Once it was the nation that seemed to dominate historians’ view of the world, but today a glance at any World History textbook is likely to leave the impression that history is mostly the story of empires. This course will explore how historians have defined “empire” and the ways they have written about its impact on multiple realms of human experience across the world. We will pay particular attention to recent trends and themes in the historiography of empire. In addition we will discuss “World History” as a concept and some approaches to teaching it. Specialists in American history should find this course equally as relevant as those whose main interests lie further afield.

HIST692.010: PLANNING A COURSE OF INSTRUCTION
Joyce                  Limit 2       MW 8:40-9:55; F 8:00-11:00
Only open to Teacher Education students (from the School of Education, the College of Arts & Sciences, or elsewhere).
This is a methods course for teaching social studies in secondary school. It brings together subject content knowledge and pedagogical approaches in order to stimulate and assess student learning. You will learn how to create and implement daily lesson plans. You must be approved for student teaching prior to taking this course. You must also register for HIST492-LAB component. The field placement for HIST491 will take place on Fridays from 8:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. at your school placement.
MSST410.010/610.010: EXHIBITIONS
Ott Limit 12 F 1:25 –4:25
Exhibitions in national art galleries, local house museums, city zoos, and tribal museums are primary places people learn about history, nature, and cultures the world over, even in this digital age. In this course, students will learn about the history and practice of exhibitions, with a focus on the design and organization of an original exhibition at a local institution. Along with learning about the process of developing an exhibition plan and script, selecting and displaying images and objects, writing text labels, and mounting a show, we will also discuss the politics of museum exhibitions, including the power of exhibitions to shape national culture, ethnic and racial identity, community, and relationships with the natural world. Some sessions will meet in Chadds Ford, PA.

MSST413.010/603.010: DIGITAL MUSEUMS
Zarafonetis Limit 12 M 6:00-9:00
Examines the use of digital technology museums. Topics include best practices in museum web design, virtual exhibitions, digital communication strategies, digital image processing, publicly-accessible collection databases, game design and animation for educational use, and application design.
